Building Solidarity Across the Divides, Organizing Around Our Common Interests

A Washington Interfaith Network Action Led by Young Adults with the Candidates for Mayor

In 10 years, the city has experienced an unprecedented rate of change. With hundreds of new residents every month and neighborhoods redeveloped overnight, many residents no longer recognize the DC of their childhood.

Some say there now exist two separate DCs split by age, class, and race, creating a gap that cannot be bridged despite living side-by-side.

Join WIN as we launch a campaign of solidarity to organize around our common interests such as affordable housing, services for youth, and fair jobs to make DC a better place to live for all.
